

Tech Update Bulletin – 10/6/2025

The following questions have come in from competitors for the upcoming Stateline 200 on October 25th. See Q's and A's below. Email info@statelinespeedway.com or through FB messenger with any additional questions.

Q: Can I use a Subaru AWD as long as the Rear or Front are disabled

A: Yes, as long as there is no possible way to hook it back up. We will make this determination in tech.

Q: How will scoring work, are we using transponders?

A: No, transponders will not be used. We do not have enough transponders to outfit the whole field. Competitors must bring a scorer. Scorers will be seated behind the flag stand. Stateline will confirm scoring throughout the race with competitor scorers.

Q: What is the starting time for the enduro?

A: Starting time for the enduro is 2PM.

Q: Should we put a number on our car or will numbers be assigned at the track?

A: Numbers will be assigned at the track based on the Starting Draw. For example, the car starting 1st will be #1. This is to avoid duplicate numbers and the difficulty of scoring potentially over 100 cars.

Q: Are hood pins acceptable?

A: Yes, they are acceptable.

Q: Are racing wheels allowed?

A: No, only the stock production wheels for the make/model/year of car are allowed.

Q: What can we use for rub rails?

A: A maximum 1 ½ x 1 ½ square or round tubing (rub rail) may be used on the Driver's AND passenger side. Rub rails must be securely bolted with washers to the body by a minimum of (4) bolts per rub rail.

Q: Can we run a rear-wheel drive as long as it's a 2-wheel drive?

A: Yes, any 4 or 6 cylinder passenger car or mini van can be used as long as it's a 2-wheel drive vehicle. NO TRUCKS or Jeeps.

Q: Can we run a bar between the pillars behind the seat?

A: Yes, this is permitted. "Roll bars are optional but recommended"

Q: The car I am using has had a front end impact and the radiator support is gone.

A: You may build a radiator support to provide additional support.

Q: Are challenger cars legal to run in the Enduro

A: No, a challenger car has likely had too many modifications and is not allowed to run in the enduro.

Q: Are we allowed to strip the interior, seats, carpet, inner door panels?

A: Yes, it is not only allowed it is highly recommended as a safety concern.

Q: Can we run studded tires?

A: No studded tires of any kind are permitted.

Q: How many positions does Starting Draw apply to?

A: Starting draw applies to all starting positions.

Q: Is there a maximum number of cars that will start the race?

A: No, there is not maximum to the number of cars that can start the race.
